PRESIDENT INSISTS PROGRESS IS MADE IN MEXICAN SITUATION*Believes that Order Will Soon be Restored Out of Chaos.*DIPLOMATS ARE NOT LEAVING*Wilson Brings in Takes the Stories That Both Lind and O'Shaughnessy are Preparing to Return to This Country; Investigating Situation.

By United Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—John Lind is not going from Vera Cruz, neither is Charles O'Shaughnessy, according to the president. The president is confident that diplomacy is bringing order out of chaos. The president made it plain at his weekly conference with the newspaper correspondents today that progress for peace in Mexico is still being made. The ousting of Manuel, Alcala, an instigator of interior from the cabinet will have no bearing on the situation. President Wilson branded as false the stories to effect that O'Shaughnessy is about to close his embassy. He placed in the same category the rumor that Lind is about to board a battleship. O'Shaughnessy is not to leave Mexico unless he is handed his passport.

The president believes he is making headway. Huerta's supplies of cash from abroad are cut off. He is now depending on forced international loans. When they run out, Huerta's government will collapse. It is believed that the Constitutionists will soon be able to make an attack on Mexico City. It will only require an advance on the part of the United States to force Huerta to flee. The president is investigating the charges that Federal officers are executed without trial after the fall of Huerta. There is no confirmation of these reports as yet, but it is shown that such cruelty was practiced. It may have been a continuation of the willingness of the president to continue negotiations with Carranza.

Official communication with any of the members of Huerta's cabinet has been prohibited. President Wilson desires to avoid even the semblance of recognition of the Huerta administration. The negotiations now under way are being made with influential Mexicans who have the influence of their country at heart and who are business men rather than politicians.

LAREDO, Mex., Nov. 17.—Three hundred American refugees from Huerta passed through here today. Their expenses are being paid by the United States government, but they are suffering great hardships enroute. The Constitutionists stopped their trains on several occasions but offered no violence to the passengers.

POSTMASTERS' EXAMINATION
Fourth Class Officers Civil Service Law Passed.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Civil Service Commission has announced examinations within 30 days for fourth class postmasters in Vermont, New Hampshire, Florida, New Mexico, Virginia and North Carolina. Postmaster General Taft today issued a statement that the positions will be filled in accordance with both the spirit and letter of the civil service law, and no selection made simply upon account of a recommendation of a member of Congress. He has directed that all letters recommending appointments be returned to the writers.

Further reference to President Wilson's order of May 11th, requiring the clerk of civil service protection from a large body of fourth-class postmasters who have been blanketed into the classified service by "President Taft." The examination will be open to the present postmasters as well as to any other persons who desire to compete.

365 KILLED IN THREE MONTHS*Railways of the State Also Injured
1,009 in That Time.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 17.—Statistics gathered by the accident department of the Public Service Commission show that during the months of July, August and September of this year 312 people were killed on the railroads of the state. They killed 185 employees and 21 others. 25 of the latter were killed at grade crossings. During the same period 3,000 were injured. There is an increase of 12 in the number of fatalities and of 93 in the number injured, as compared with the third quarter of last year.

On the street railways 53 were killed and 241 injured, showing an increase of 6 in the number killed and a decrease of 106 in the number injured. The combined figures show that on both the steam railroads and street railways 365 people were killed and 1,009 injured.

MAN TRIES SUICIDE WHEN WIFE CALLS COP TO HOME*Shoots Himself in Effort to Avoid Arrest for Disturbance; Will Recover.

David Barnhart of Swantonport is at the Cottage State Hospital suffering from a wound in his left breast inflicted shortly after noon yesterday when he shot himself with suicidal intent rather than submit to arrest by Constable John Snyder.

Barnhart and his wife, it is alleged, had quarreled at the dinner table and she, fearing that he might do her bodily harm, summoned the constable to arrest him. As he appeared, Barnhart ran into the cellar where he fired a bullet into his breast.

The wounded man was removed to the hospital. The physicians have not pronounced the bullet, but they do not regard the wound as a serious one. He is 44 years old and worked at Davidson.

Barnhart told the hospital attendants that domestic troubles were the cause of his attempt at self-destruction.

WANT BUREAU PROBED*Shippers Say Foremen Were Negligent in Issuing Warnings.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 17.—A sweeping investigation of the weather bureau service along the Great Lakes has been asked for by President Wilson by Congressman William S. Gordon. In view of the great loss of life and damage to property from the recent storm.

It was charged that none of the stations gave adequate warning of the storm and that they are in a no-quarrel position for the loss of 254 lives and the millions of dollars damage. The bureau at Detroit, Detroit and Port Collins failed to fly the usual storm signals. It is charged, for if hurricane flags had been displayed many vessels that subsequently perished would not have ventured out.

The shipping industry depends upon the accuracy of the weather predictions and adds by them at all times, hence the prediction from Cleveland the day before the storm that snow squalls and high wind would be the extent of the storm, proved the service to be a menace rather than a protection to shipping interests.

FINED FOR FRANK*Paid Before Burgess for Giving Shower Bath.

After being sentenced to 72 hours each for disorderly conduct, Theodore Hootel and Joseph Foley received the same sentence again on Sunday morning for giving a shower bath to Jack O'Leary while the latter occupied one of the cells in the lockup.

When O'Leary appeared he exhibited an overcoat dripping with water, complaining that Hootel and Foley had thrown a bucket full of water upon him as he lay in the narrow cell. Burgess Evans allowed O'Leary to go and summoned Hootel before him. The latter had been released earlier in the morning upon payment of $5, and had come down to attend his court as a spectator. He was sent back for 72 hours, but was released when he secured someone to stand good for his additional $5 fine.

Young Foley was given an additional 72 hours, making six days in all for his part in the drenching of O'Leary.

MILK SHIPMENTS TO BALTIMORE STARTED
BY TWO RAILROADS*Pittsburg & Lake Erie and Western Maryland After
Daily Business.*PLAN SPECIAL TRAIN IN SPRING*New Schedule Goes Into Effect on the Two Roads, With Running Time
Between Baltimore and Chicago Much Shorter; Local Train to Cumberland

Daily shipments between Chicago and Baltimore will be made for the first time this week over the Pittsburg & Lake Erie-Western Maryland lines. A special car will be attached to one of the through passenger trains for the special purpose of handling milk shipments. It is expected that by spring there will be sufficient business to warrant a regular dairy train, similar in many respects to the oyster trains which are run on other roads during the winter months.

The Pittsburg & Lake Erie has an ice plant in service at New Castle, while the Western Maryland will soon have one completed at Hagerstown. With both of these plants in operation the shipment of milk consignments will be simplified.

The New York Central lines run through a prosperous dairy section in Ohio and other Middle Western states. This system handles much of the dairy business into Cleveland, but it is expected that the eastern markets will offer an even more attractive business for the farmers of that section.

The full schedule went into effect on both railroads yesterday. Punctual time is demanded of the Western Maryland's through trains. The Baltimore-Special leaves Connettsville at 10:50 a. m. and 10:35 a. m. morning makes 20 minutes less time to Cumberland and gets into Baltimore at 6:40 p. m. An hour is clipped from the running time of the westbound train from Baltimore to Chicago. This train leaves Baltimore at 10:00 a. m. and arrives here at 6:30 a. m. and 6:55 p. m. The night train west leaves Baltimore at 9:50 p. m. and arrives here at 5:40 a. m. getting into Pittsburg at 7:20 a. m. The day train east leaves Baltimore at 9:50 p. m. and arrives here at 5:40 a. m. getting into Pittsburg at 7:20 a. m. RIVER ON RAMPAGE*Goes Above 11 Feet and Then Subsides; Sun Shines.

After subsiding for a while on Saturday the Young river began to rise again apparently bent upon setting a new "high water mark" for the year. It was compelled to give up at 11.20 feet, the record of Sunday evening.

The reading on Saturday night was 8 feet, but by Sunday morning it was up to 9.50 feet. Rising after reaching 11.20 feet, the force was spent. This morning it was at 10 feet.

Some of the lowlands on the West side was submerged but no damage was done, so far as was known. The highest previous mark was 13 feet during the thaw and rains of last January.

The sun came out today for the first time in nearly a week. Last week was almost uniformly gloomy.

HEAVES MIDDLING NEIGHBOR.*Mother Who Murdered Children Says Other Women Shamed Her.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Amelia Benbow, who killed her two small children yesterday, puts the responsibility for her crime on a meddling neighbor. According to her story the cause of the children's deaths was the fact that she was a West and as a result he quit sending his wife any money.

Mrs. Benbow wrote to him that she would kill Harry and William if he did not send her money by November 16. True to her word, when the money did not come, she strangled the children and then attempted to take her own life.

THEIR FIFTH ANNUAL DINNER*General Manager J. B. Yoho Elected President; W. H. Thomas of Town a Speaker.

The fifth annual dinner of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Veterans' Association was given by the management of the company Saturday afternoon in the Port Pitt Hotel. About 350 employees of the railroad were present, including nearly all members of the association. The association is made up of employees who have served the Pittsburg & Lake Erie 20 years or more in all its departments. A number of other men were among those present.

During the half hour preceding the dinner, which was set for 1 o'clock, a general reception was held, and while at dinner the veterans were entertained by the local orchestra. A Pittsburg & Lake Erie organization, and the Pittsburg & Lake Erie quartet. The place cards represented the classes by years, from the organization of the railroad in 1879 to the junior class of 1909.

The dinner marked the formal entry of the junior class into the organization consisting of the following five employees who have reached the 20-year mark: George Gray, E. C. Jones, Ella E. Schuster, D. H. Russell and Edward H. Cuchers. D. J. Redding, assistant superintendent of motive power, of the class of 1885, was toastmaster, and called on a member of the class of 1886, a short and interesting talk on early reminiscences of the history of the railroad touching on the original survey from Connettsville to Cumberland of the Chesapeake & Ohio, now the route of the Baltimore & Ohio and Western Maryland railroads, and on Colonel Crawford's cabin which stood in the rear of the Allen property on Seventh street, West Side, and other landmarks of interest to old road riders.

Others who attended from this section were James Mueger and Richard Johnson, car inspectors at Dickerson Run, and J. C. Levenson, yard conductor at Dickerson Run. Builders Harold and J. L. Thomas, general agent at Dickerson Run, were eligible, but were unable to attend.

Following the addresses J. B. Yoho was unanimously elected president. The association officers were elected as follows: W. H. Thomas, vice president, and D. G. Hood, secretary and treasurer.

W. H. Thomas, freight agent on the West Side, an employee of the railroad since 1880, a short and interesting talk on early reminiscences of the history of the railroad touching on the original survey from Connettsville to Cumberland of the Chesapeake & Ohio, now the route of the Baltimore & Ohio and Western Maryland railroads, and on Colonel Crawford's cabin which stood in the rear of the Allen property on Seventh street, West Side, and other landmarks of interest to old road riders.

WOMAN DISAPPEARS*Streams About Connettsville Being Dragged for Mrs. Kurtz, Jr.

Searching parties are out hunting for Mrs. Harvey Kurtz, Jr., of Connettsville, who disappeared mysteriously Sunday morning. The three rivers at that point are being dragged for it is feared that the woman may have carried out her threat to drown herself.

Mrs. Kurtz has been melancholy for some time and on several occasions she threatened to jump into the river. She went to bed at the usual time on Saturday night but about 2 o'clock Sunday morning her husband awoke to find her gone. Since then not a trace of her has been found.

Searching parties were out all day Sunday awaiting the frantic husband. As a last resort the police of the surrounding towns were notified.

Mrs. Kurtz is the proprietor of a dental office located in Connettsville. Some time ago, and Mrs. Kurtz's mental condition, it is said, has been impaired through worry about it. She is one of the best known women in Connettsville.

DESTROYED BY FIRE*Town is Threatened by a Bad Blaze Early Yesterday
Morning.*HOTEL, IN DANGER, IS SAVED*Store of David Welmer, Dance Hall
Vacant House Destroyed; Mike
Krell, Owner of Store, Heavy Loser.

Fire of mysterious origin destroyed three buildings in the business district of Perryopolis about 2:30 Sunday morning, despite the strenuous efforts of the volunteer fire department and practically all of the male citizens of the town.

The clothing store of David J. Welmer, in which the fire originated, was completely destroyed together with its entire contents. The residence adjoining occupied by the Welmer family, met a similar fate, the occupants saved nothing but a few of their clothes and some trinkets. An unoccupied dwelling in the rear of the store also burned. It had been vacated last week and a new tenant was to move in today. The store building was owned by Mike Krell.

A dance was in progress in the hall over the store at 2 o'clock. The dancers had left and the hall was in darkness when some late stragglers saw a sheet of flame burst out from the front of the store. In a remarkably short time the building was completely enveloped. All were framed structures.

The fire department realizing that it was impossible to save the burning buildings, confined their efforts to preventing a further spread of the flames. Water was poured on the Perry Hotel and it was kept from being burned, though the kitchen was charred and considerably damaged by water.

The building in which the Welmer store was located was insured but the contents of the store was not. The loss may reach $10,000.

Mild Advice of a Peace-maker.

Remonstrating with Noah Miner for using bad language, George Fuehrer, the veteran insurance and real estate agent, was knocked down three times and severely beaten at Leisnering No. 1 about 9 o'clock Saturday night. His assailant was arrested.

Mr. Fuehrer got off the car on his way home from Pittsburg. Miner and two negro companions had been put off the car ahead for disorderly conduct and they were venting their wrath in no uncertain fashion. According to the younger of the trio, a white man, apparently not out of his teens, Mr. Fuehrer said to him: "Don't talk like that. You wouldn't want your mother or sister to hear you say such things."

With a profane, vulgar epithet, the young fellow turned and struck Fuehrer, who being entirely unprepared, and his arms being occupied with a big bunch of chrysanthemums which he was taking home to his wife, fell heavily to the ground. His assailant then kicked him and when he attempted to rise knocked him down again, kicking him viciously in the shins.

Satisfied that he had inflicted the proper punishment on one who ventured to criticize his language, the young fellow moved off. The negroes, who had been with him, followed him and he was taken to the Leisnering police station. Mr. Fuehrer managed to rise and after a time located Officer Harvey Burkett. They began a search for the men and Fuehrer again came across his assailant. Pretending that he cherished no hard feelings for the beating he kept the fellow with him until Burkett again arrested him. Burkett could nab him he again he ran away.

NEW GEOLOGICAL VOLUME

West Virginia Survey Makes Detailed Report on Three Counties.

There has just been issued from the press a new publication by the West Virginia Geological Survey, Morgantown, W. Va. This volume is described in the following extract from the printed circular of the Geological Survey, and the reader is also told how to secure the publication in question:

"Detailed Report on Cabell, Wayne and Lincoln Counties, issued under date of April 15, 1913, 483 pages plus XVI, with 26 half-tone plates and six steel sketches in the text, also a case of nine maps, covering the soils, topography and geology of each county separately. In addition to the description of all geologic features of the counties in question, the geologic maps show the structural contours on the Pittsburgh coal horizon, as also the location of the anticlines and synclines showing their relations to the several oil and gas pools of the district. The soil maps and reports of the experts of the United States Department of Agriculture covering this general agricultural and tobacco region of the state should prove of especial value to the agricultural and horticultural interests. Price, with case of maps, delivery charges paid by the Survey, $2. Extra topographic or geologic maps, 25 cents for each county."

SEEK TO REDUCE DEATHS

West Virginia Mines Will be Closely Supervised.

With a view to securing stricter supervision of the mines in West Virginia, where the danger is the greatest during the present season of the year, Governor H. D. Hutfield is advising with Earl A. Henry, chief of the State Department of Mines, in establishing a system of classification of the mines into three divisions—non-hazardous, hazardous and extra hazardous.

The Governor's plan is to assign the district mine inspectors so as to provide inspections of the extra hazardous mines more often than the non-hazardous, to prevent explosions as far as possible. Every precaution is being taken to minimize the death toll from mine explosions and Governor Hutfield, who is familiar with the mining industry, is scrutinizing the daily inspection reports.

PUTS BLAME ON PITTSBURG.
Milwaukee Reformer Charges Unfair Retail Coal Tactics.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 17.—District Attorney Yockey will take up his campaign against the retail coal dealers and proposes to make it a national instead of a local investigation. To this end he has written to several district attorneys in important cities, asking for similar investigations there, to learn by what means the dealers maintain like prices in the various cities of the country.

"I believe that this coal price conspiracy has its heart in Cincinnati, or Pittsburgh," Yockey said on the eve of his investigation, "and if other cities aid me, we can find that retail prices for each city are fixed elsewhere. The evidence we take will be sent to the Federal Attorney General."

The Stage and The Players.

Scene from Beverly of Graustark.

THE SOISSON.

"BEVERLY"
A. G. Delamater, producer of recent plays, although a comparatively new man among theatrical managers, has in a remarkable short time established himself in the very front rank of producers of high class attractions. His production of "Beverly" a dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's most successful novel, "Beverly of Graustark" is being presented at the Sullivan Theatre on Thursday, matinee and night, November 20th, in its fourth year of its popularity. The dramatization of Mr. McCutcheon's popular novel by Robert M. Baker is conceded to be a more fascinating play than story, as all the characters in the book are retained in the play. The cast includes Dorothy Lecker, formerly leading woman with Nat Goodwin and Cyril Scott in "The Prince of Wales," Francis Keeley for six years leading man with Walter Whitehead, Walter Carter, who has played leading man with many of the prominent dramatic stars, and has been prominent in high class stock companies, formerly with Mrs. Pike in "The Girl of the Year" and "The Girl of the Year."

THE COLONIAL.

Manager Dad Hall of the Colonial Theatre is in receipt of a notice that the Grand Opera Festival Company, which was booked to sing "Faust," Saturday, November 22, has been closed. By quick action a worthy substitute has been obtained from the Grand Opera Festival of New York City. On the 22nd the attraction will be The Great Welsh Male Singers, known as The Royal Male Choir. Singers of England and Wales, an attraction that has made a phenomenal success all over Europe and America. This choir of 15 superior male voices stands in the front rank of Welsh great singing societies. It is expected that this splendid aggregation will give two performances, matinee and night. Announcements will be made in local papers giving full particulars.

THE ARCADE.

FAMOUS RUSSIAN DANCERS.
Dad Hall is keeping the good work up and for the third week of good shows promises a week of vaudeville hits. There are some special bookings for his musical comedies coming, which will be announced later, and some of them especially the Red Raven Company of 15 people, will open one's eyes. Variety is the spice of life therefore straight vaudeville acts will occupy the Arcade stage this week. The special feature for today is Godevsky's famous Troupe of Russian Dancers. This is a very high salaried "big time" act of merit. The second feature is Marie Drenne, sensational, lady baritone, followed by Jack and Mike in comedy singing, dancing, juggling and a sleek wire novelty. These splendid acts will make a very acceptable bill. The big feature for the last half of the week will be the Four Holey Girls, harmony singers of note.

KITCHEN KINKS.

Notes when bought ready shelled should be washed, dried in the oven and put away in glass jars.
Ordinary lemonade will make a delicious, refreshing drink when sweetened with maple syrup instead of sugar.
Test potatoes by cutting in two and rubbing the cut surfaces together; then press the two parts together. If they stick the potatoes are good.
The addition of a little soda mixed with a teaspoonful of cornstarch to the cream before pouring it into the tomato mixture will prevent curdling in the making of creamed tomato soup.
The secret of flaky pie crust is the use of hot water (not boiling) rather than cold in mixing the dough. If this suggestion is followed the crust will always be flaky, tender and crisp.
No matter how much dripping is used when being fried is apt to stick to the pan's bottom. If a tablespoonful of dry salt is put into the pan and rubbed over it it will be found satisfactory.
Often when boiling eggs the white comes through the yolk and spoils the taste of the egg through its appearance. This may be prevented if a teaspoonful of salt is put into the water before boiling.

Tribute to Women.

In the Woman's Home Companion Ignace Paderewski, the celebrated pianist, is interviewed on the subject "What a Little Knowledge of Music Means." In the course of the interview Paderewski is quoted as saying: "But for women there would today be no art in the world, not alone in America, but anywhere. The assertion may seem a sweeping one, but I thoroughly believe it to be true. The woman it is who, through inherent love of music and responsive, deeply refined feeling, encourage it in brave, practical, energetic ways. The woman it is, too, who leads to the cause of its fostering and influence by their supreme enthusiasm the men to follow."

Pulchritude and Pedagogy.
Dr. Williams, superintendent of schools at Richmond, Va., advises the school board not to employ women teachers who were either startlingly beautiful or equally homely. The objection, he said, was that a teacher whose personal looks were unusual would attract more attention to herself than to her teaching. He believes that teachers ought not to attract attention to themselves in any way.

What Is Smart in Bags?
If you would be smart and right up to the minute this winter you must have a hand bag to match each costume. Nothing could be lovelier for afternoon bridge parties or for the antler than one of the new pompadour vanity bags.

Such a model is seen in the cut—a delightful affair of hand embroidered black moire silk with flowers in natural colorings. The bag has two compartments, one for toilet necessities and the other for small change. The handle is of broad silk, and a handsome black silk tassel finishes the end of the little accessory.

U. S. COAL EXPORTS DOUBLE IN VALUE IN LAST DECADE

Those for Year Ending Next Month Approximate a Billion Dollars.

CANADA IS A BIG PURCHASER

Large Percentage of Anthracite and Bituminous Goes to Northern Neighbor; United States Occupies Third Place in Amount of Coal Exported.

The value of coal passing out of continental United States in the year which ends with next month will approximate $1,000,000,000, or about less than half that sent to foreign countries in the full year last approximated $200,000,000. Of that supplied to foreign countries engaged in the foreign trade $250,000,000 of coke exported, $250,000,000 and of shipments of coal to the contiguous territories of the United States, $1,000,000. This indicates an increase during the last decade of over 100 per cent, the value of coal exported in the calendar year 1903 having been $25,000,000, while for current year the total will approximate $70,000,000; and the increase in the value of coal supplied to vessels engaged in the foreign trade and of that passing out of the country in the form of coke has been about similar since 1903. The official report of that supplied to vessels only begins with the year 1907.

Of the exports of coal to foreign countries anthracite forms about one-third and goes almost exclusively to Canada. For the bituminous, which forms about two-thirds of the total, Canada is also a large customer, taking $90,000,000 out of the $200,000,000 tons sent to foreign countries in the eight months ending with August; though Mexico, Panama, Cuba, and even in other of the West Indies are also large purchasers. The value of the bituminous coal exported from the United States to Canada in the eight months ending with August was $1,000,000, to Cuba, $2,333,000, to Mexico over $1,000,000 to Panama approximately $1,000,000; to the West Indies other than Cuba, $1,250,000, while the remainder $7,500 worth was sent to Europe. A large share of the bituminous coal exported to Europe, including Italy, Austria-Hungary, France, Netherlands, Norway, Spain, Ireland, Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Columbia, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Egypt and British India, Germany and Portugal, Africa.

Most of the coal passing out of the country leaves by the northern border. Of the $2,000,000 worth of anthracite coal exported in the first year 1912 over $25,000,000 worth passed through the northern border ports, while of the $10,000,000 worth of bituminous exported about two-thirds passed through the northern border ports, the remainder going out chiefly at Norfolk, Newport News, Philadelphia and Baltimore. The United States now occupies third place in the list of coal-exporting countries of the world, the coal-exporting of the United Kingdom for the calendar year 1912 having been $5,000,000,000; those of Germany $3,000,000,000, the United States $2,500,000,000 (including bunker coal and shipments to Hawaii and Porto Rico); Australia, $2,000,000,000; Japan, $1,500,000,000; France $2,250,000,000 tons.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have.

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. J. M. Edwards, for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming that Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a myriad of ailments, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that one's system collects. If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, head aches, a bad case of constipation, all out of sorts, have five bowls, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women as well as men, use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink of condition. More than the fashionables of the New World are busy with modistes and milliners of the country and Paris and the tailors of London, all working feverishly to complete wardrobes which are to pass in review at the approaching Horse Show, that annual feature in New York's calendar which marks the return of these same fashionables to their city residences after months spent at resorts the world over, or else at their adjacent country estates.

To many, these fashionables, their gowns, and horse show togetherness are the whole show, but the writer is far more interested in the horses that will be shown there, and he shall devote his comments to them. That the very best horses in the world will be gathered in New York within the next few days none can gainsay, for nowadays the show horse has reached such a state of perfection, and such vast fortunes have been expended in bringing him up to his high state of perfection that a champion of champions is in reality worth his weight in silver.

Beauty of the Harness Class.
For many years the harness classes eclipsed all others at the big horse shows. Even today they are by far the showiest classes to cavort about the ring and nothing could be more beautiful in horseflesh than the perfectly matched pairs that prance to whatever style of vehicle they might be attached. Driven in spans or tandems, or singly, or in fours, these harness horses represent all that is best in the horse of today. But with the almost universal adoption of the automobile as Society's mode of locomotion, whether it be for an airing in the park or a drive through town or country, the harness horse stands in peril of desertion. Of course there are those real lovers of horses who, no matter how many automobiles they may own, will always maintain a stable of show horses. Then, too, there are certain men and women of this country with social aspirations, but whose only claim for recognition is a fat bank account, who recognize the show horse as an easy passport to the drawing rooms of the chosen few.

Intense Interest in Saddle Horses.
This year all interest centers in the saddle class. There will be more high grade saddle horses, hunters and chasers shown at the coming horse show than ever before. Many of these have come from across the seas and the best chasers of the German, Austrian, French, English and Italian armies will be shown with their officer owners. This constitutes one of the classiest events in the annual horse show and one in which more real rivalry is injected than in any other. These foreign officers who come here to compete with those of Uncle Sam always wear their full cavalry or artillery regalia when they show their horses and these dazzling uniforms of the hussars and lanciers lend a vivid splash of color to the already brilliant spectacle. So far the foreigners have walked away with the ribbons which the officers of the United States Army so valiantly strove for, but this year there will be another sequel to the struggle.

One of the most spectacular performers over to enter the lists for ribbons throughout the horse show circuit, open air and under roof, is Nickel Plate, the magnificent, big, steel gray gelding. Afterbury has so successfully shown the last year or so Nickel Plate is the undisputed champion of his class, and although many noble looking challengers will be in the arena this autumn, real experts of horse flesh assert that he will repeat his successes of the past. This horse rarely fails to capture every ribbon he competes for and should be by some trifling fall to land the blue in this or that class he invariably comes back and wins the challenge cup and ribbon for the championship. His owner always places him in his various classes and she shows him in faultless style.

Sixteen Year Old Marvel.
Another blue ribbon champion is Cavalier, the splendid big hunter and breechings which little Miss Hitchcock is so successfully showing this year. This girl, barely sixteen, is one of the most sensational riders in the exclusive Meadowbrook, Long Island, set where horses are the ruling passion. She is an expert in the hunting field as she is in the show ring, and this year has taken up steep climbing with such success that there are few men who can hold their own with her. She also is a splendid polo player, and there are few better. Miss Hitchcock will show her own mounts as well as those of her mother, Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, at the Horse Show and since she has shown a dozen or more hunters over the jumps in a single afternoon at several open air shows, it is not reasonable to suppose that there will be any woman contending against her who possesses more skill, or stamina.

Unusual interest centers about the performance of "Champ Clark," another champion of champions, who will be shown this fall by his owner, Mrs. Charles M. Moore. This horse is a splendid performer in the show ring and never fails to bring home a ribbon, and more often a blue, when he competes. His owner and rider is a finished horsewoman and she knows how to bring out every good point he possesses.

The Four-in-Hand Champions.
Of course chief interest surrounds the various four-in-hand classes, whether these beautiful coaches be tooled by men or women whips. Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, president of the National Horse Show Association, has, perhaps, done more to keep interest alive in this beautiful sport here and abroad than any other individual. For instance, each year he took a coach from London to Brighton and makes the return trip on alternate days. To do this he has to maintain a stable of upwards of seventy horses, stationed at various points along the road. Fresh sets of coaching horses are made at frequent intervals so that his high rate of speed he has set for a trip can be maintained. Such a job costs thousands upon thousands of dollars each year, but his interest rather than vanity, Mr. Vanderbilt will of course show his several coaching teams at the forthcoming show, and among them will be his championship span of six.

Judge William Moore is another devotee of the show ring whose tastes run to the harness horses and his entries possibly exceed in number, as well as in quality, those of any other contestant. He has gathered in his stable one of the grandest collections of show horses this country has ever seen, and it is only necessary for a horse in the show ring to be shown by Judge Moore to show championship culture before Judge Moore has annexed it. His four-in-hands are second to none in the world and the annual duel between him and Mr. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt for the coaching marathon, from Arrowhead Inn to the show ring in Madison Square Garden while the show is in progress is one of the most stirring events of this function. Judge Moore is a fine ship in hand and does his horses to better advantage than he.

Women Ardent Devotees of Sport.
The women who still keep up their interest in the harness classes are numerous and this year, as heretofore, these classes will be well filled with women as competitors. Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, as well as Mrs. Edward McLean, of Washington, are liberal contributors in the way of entering world championship horses and both are the whites Mrs. McLean's husband is practically a newcomer to the horse show not, but he has spent a good deal of money in securing the world for horses of championship calibre, and he has a string now second to none. Mr. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, however, is an old-time exhibitor, and for many years he has been breeding the finest horses this country can produce at his sandy Point Farm, near Newport, R. I. His wife and little daughter frequently show his harness horses in the ladies' classes. Like his brother, Mr. Alfred Vanderbilt, he manifests little interest in the saddle horse, and never has exhibited one. Mr. McLean, on the other hand, is a procuring saddlers as well as harness horses, and only recently sent a commissioner to Ireland to pick up the very best hunters that could be found in that country, where nearly all good hunters come from.

Another contestant doubtless will be Miss Harriet Alexander, who is one of the most accomplished drivers of four in this country. She, together with Mrs. Thomas Hastings, Miss Marion Hollins and Miss Carol Harriman, the latter the daughter of the late Edward H. Harriman, and the only woman "master of four hounds" in this country, are prime movers in the Women's Four-in-Hand Club which makes long distance runs from the Colony Club New York, to far distant resorts at frequent intervals each season. Invariably some woman took the coach during these runs, which have become an institution now in the women's sporting events each year.

"Fate Tried To Conceal Him By Naming Him Smith".

WHEN Oliver Wendell Holmes uttered that poetic witticism at the expense of the prolific and powerful Smith family he forgot the United States Congress, it always contains a Smith and said Smith is usually about as "concealed" as the headlight on a touring car.

Going back through the Congressional directories of Congressmen living, ex-Congressmen and Congressmen deceased the number hailing from the House of Smith is truly remarkable. And in the present time they are the very scum of fame, both in number and deeds.

Politics may change, committees be made over to suit the altered complexion of the ruling party, but always there is a Smith heading, and all the men of the Smith family name there, the Smiths seem to have most successfully clinched the hold on newspaper prominence and political influence. Of these, even represent their deserving family in the lower and five in the upper House. There are seventy-three committees on which Senators may serve and the quintet of Senatorial Smiths are represented, collectively, on thirty-six of them. Whether by accident or personal preference is not known, but only two committees contain more than one Smith, and of these one is the Committee on Naval Affairs, where perpetual "scrapping" would not seem out of place.

In the House of Representatives the seven Smiths have done equally well for themselves being among those present on rosters of the most desirable committees.

Disaster Made Him Famous.

In casting about for the most notable son of the Congressional tribe, one will find a few, because they are so individually different in "good," characteristics and graces, methods—different as the contrasting sections of the land from which they come. Perhaps, though, international history will longest recall Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan. Born in 1853 he had started his political life as a page in the House of Representatives of that State and followed on up the chain of law clerk, lawyer, and Member of Congress. He served in half a dozen successive sessions, being unanimously re-elected to the last one. Always he was associated with some important committee and his speeches and judgment were alike favorably commented upon by colleagues and the press. But he was just a member of the Smith family, not even his distinctive "front name" of William Alden, being able to rescue him from the "concealment" of his cognomen, Smith. Then came the terrible disaster to the Titanic. Senator Smith was chairman of the committee to whom jurisdiction fell the investigation of the wreck. At its close several men had gained a most enviable life notoriety but Senator Alden Smith was an well known, photographed, and interviewed, of Fall Hall as on Pennsylvania avenue—more so.

The Man Who Came Back.

That sounds like the title of a cheap thriller but really signifies a man who has the reputation in Congress of never having done, said, or bought a cheap thing. Senator Marcus A. Smith is an example of the splendid Southerners they raise to maturity out West. Born in Kentucky, he settled in Arizona in the early 80's and has remained there ever since—except during Congressional terms. Coming to Congress first as a Delegate from the Territory of Arizona, he got the habit and continued for eight sessions—with occasional breaks in between when he generously gave "the other fellow" a chance for "Mark" Smith is the very soul of generosity. During this time he is sufficient committee to forever set him apart from all the other hundreds of Smiths in the land. But even he could not stand the overwhelming burden of being "John Smith." That was too much, so he carefully divided it by the more individual "Walter."

SEN. MARCUS A. SMITH

While women have no place in this recount of the Congressional Smiths it is most impossible to describe the "in" from Georgia, he is of a mild, without alluding to his daughters. For while he has completely relied on his own achievements to cause the public to remember which Smith it is who hails from Georgia, he has shown a dozen or more hunters over the jumps in a single afternoon at several open air shows, it is not reasonable to suppose

The Very Aristocratic Smith.

Not that the other Smiths are lacking in that sort of family which goes to make what genealogists term "gentleman," but Senator John Walter Smith, of Maryland—Snow Hill, Maryland—has such an exceptionally unbroken line of distinguished ancestors that for an American, it is quite remarkable. It is small wonder that patriotism and Marylandism seeth within him and that he is ever vigilant to defend historic spots and give credit to the early glories of his country. Just now he is in the limelight of the press because of a bill to erect some sort of appropriate monument at Fort Mifflin and mark the site of the battle-smoked flag which inspired Francis Scott Key to write the national anthem. But Senator Smith is not merely an idealist. As chairman of the District of Columbia Committee of the Senate he has worked like a day laborer.

SEN. JOHN WALTER SMITH

Not in years, but in the homopathic dimensions of his frame does Representative Samuel W. Smith deserve this endearing appellation. Looking at him one recalls that Napoleon, and very many other of the hunters of the world who rarely ate and seldom slept, were economic of stature but prodigal of brain talk. Any of his office force and one will be told the impression does not belie the man. Also, like "The Little Corporal," he made himself what he is without aid from any of the Smith family or anybody else. He began life as a new-boy and is proud of it. Then he worked as a farm hand, taught school and studied law, and finally got to Congress. That was quite awhile back. Indeed, this smallest Smith is said to have the longest consecutive number of "terms."

Hoke Smith The Family Man.

While women have no place in this recount of the Congressional Smiths it is most impossible to describe the "in" from Georgia, he is of a mild, without alluding to his daughters. For while he has completely relied on his own achievements to cause the public to remember which Smith it is who hails from Georgia, he has shown a dozen or more hunters over the jumps in a single afternoon at several open air shows, it is not reasonable to suppose

SEN. HOKE SMITH

"condemning" this large framed Southerner, and he manages to keep his personality so vividly before his fellow Senators that he might be named Jordanhill for all they ever confuse him with any of the others of his patrynomie at the Capitol. Being in the Upper House is no overwhetting honor for him. He has been twice governor of Georgia and, like nearly half of the Democrats now sitting in high places, read law while teaching school.

Setting His House in Order

THE House will be in order—"Bang!" Slight diminuendo in the rear of conversation.

The gentleman in the aisles will take their seats!

Omibus sileas—lasting probably so long as an eighth of a minute.

"The House will be in order—"Bang! Bang! Bang!"

And the House is in apple pie order, with Champ Clark presiding.

From the first intimation by the speaker that his "pupils" are unruly the bluest statesman of them all looks guilty, no longer is he the veteran Congressman from somewhere but a futile school boy in danger of being made an example of to the rest of the class. For as a "pup" of Champ Clark equals, if not excels his predecessor, the vitriol-tongued "Uncle Joe."

The present Speaker had many years of experience as a disciplinarian and those but slight, fundamental differences in procedure over the House of Representatives in Washington from what was encountered when teaching District school.

Indeed, his life work by preference would have been "touching" as he expresses it, and he has done so during the various best methods for bringing order out of chaos, as typified by an assemblage of pupils—whether in kindergarten or frock coats.

Once in an interview he told the writer that he would rather be president of the University of Mississippi than president of the United States. And in his public career ruling the often unruly Congress is a thoroughly congenial task.

His rostrum had to be braced last summer because of its weakened condition and a brand new, sixteen inch, galv ordered for use. For even Representatives known "back home" as "quote fathers and serious-minded statesmen become imbued with a juvenile sense of irresponsibility and objection to restraint once they belong to the national school room, with its rows of little boy benches.

"Oh, teacher's delight, but he don't low no foolishness," that's what his pupils used to say of him in the past and that's about what his "boss" think of him today.

He can wilt them with a glance but they cannot even wilt the white flower always to be seen in his buttonhole. Rarely does he display temper, but one day when a question of Stritchwood was up the debate grew very heated—so did the debate. Sooner or later man of them was strutting about the aisles, looting around the rostrum and talking Ghetto fashion, with nobody listening to anybody else.

Champ Clark was tired. The teacher executed it, men in hand and earnest conversation near the rostrum.

"I asked the gentlemen in the aisles to take their seats," the Speaker warned, "and also if the gentlemen were deaf."

Then the House came as near to tilting as pupils dare, for every class loves to get a joke on teacher—and the two gentlemen "W.D." don't.

One day, when an especially wearisome bit of legislation was being verbally pawed over by ominously cutting sarcasm "half a dozen members are talking louder at their seats than the member who has the floor." One could have heard the proverbial pin drop, each guilty man thought that shaft directed straight at him and instinctively walked to him "the class will remain after school."

When a Representative arises to talk on a bill the Speaker often, unconsciously, assumes the attitude of an instructor in a lecture room, and was into the hapless Congressman who "flunked."

Not long since a "new" man from one of the very Northern States was insisting on something or other.

"But you haven't even got the thing straight," argued the Speaker, "put your bill in your pocket and then present it." Was the man angry? No inquisitive reader, he was scared. All the grown-upness departed, leaving him just an ignorant little boy. For Champ Clark is one of the kindest parliamentarians in public today.

The men "Up there at the Capitol" know that he knows and that he knows they know he knows. So, what's the use?

And he has a memory for facts like his uncle the Orient's for revenge! He told the writer once that he could remember practically everything he had ever read and nearly everything he had ever heard—and she has never doubted it.

An illustration of this faculty was afforded by a Member from the vague Southwest, where eloquence often comes for many other deficiencies. He was fathering a bill through the House with unusual paternal pride and ardor. Into this warmth of language came the frigid voice of the Speaker.

"I, seems to me," he drawled—and he is alone in his ability to drawl fully—"that this is the same bill about which a Member from your section of the country was so agitated last session. As I recall his arguments they were just as forcibly against the bill as yours are in favor of it." Then, musingly, "where is that gentleman today?"

Well he subsequently had to atone most of his play in the restoration of order for the suddenly tongue-tied, red-faced personage standing there the butt of the class all of whom were shily making faces at him, was the same identical gentleman who had acted like a squallor of the bill several months before.

Frequently the Speaker calls whimsically so soon that the class simply cannot help laughing the gavel comes down slowly, reluctantly at his desk, and a loud, a willful, a impudent hand that made it. And the pupils all look at one another and grin for "teacher" is in a lenient mood.

CAROLYN CROSS

PROVISIONS OF THE ENLARGED HOMESTEAD LAW IS EXPLAINED

Secretary of Interior Tells How 320-Acre Tracts Are Obtained.

NON-IRRIGABLE LAND ONLY

More Than 200,000,000 Acres Already Put in This Class and More Millions Are Being Filed; Simple and Direct Action All That Is Now Required.

The 320-acre homestead law, as it is often called, the enlarged-homestead law, has made possible the entry of many millions of acres of dry land in the western states in tracts double the size allowed under the original homestead law. One land which has been "designated" by the Secretary of the Interior as "non-irrigable" can be entered under this act. More than 200,000,000 acres have been thus designated, but millions and millions more are being designated among western homesteaders as to the procedure necessary in order that enlarged homestead designations may be made. The Secretary states that only the simplest and most direct action by the settler is required, and that it is wholly unnecessary for him to incur the charges now made by attorneys who draw up formal petitions that are in fact no more effective than the homesteader's own letter would be. On this account a brief statement of the essential facts relative to the enlarged-homestead law is timely.

The first enlarged-homestead act was approved February 17, 1905, and has since been amended so that in the States of Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming any person who is qualified to make entry under the homestead laws may enter as much as 320 acres of public land which is in a reasonably compact body and is non-irrigable, non-mineral, unreserved, and unappropriated and does not contain any building, tunnel, or other structure. Before such entry can be made, however, the land must be designated by the Secretary of the Interior as not being in his opinion susceptible of successful irrigation at a reasonable cost from any known source of water supply.

The work of classifying the lands and determining what areas may be considered non-irrigable has been assigned by the Secretary of the Interior to the United States Geological Survey. Although, under the present ruling of the Secretary, large areas may be designated as non-irrigable without raising the question whether the land is in either respect subject to homestead entry, the work of examining and classifying these large areas necessarily proceeds rather slowly. In addition to these so-called "blanket" designations, therefore, designations of smaller areas are made as quickly as their non-irrigable character is determined, including areas whose designation has been requested by individual settlers for enlarged-homestead entry or for addition to existing tracts adjacent to their present unperfected homestead entries.

No definite form of petition is required, but such application should be limited as far as possible to the specific tract desired for entry and should contain a description, by section, township, and range, of the applicant's original homestead entry and the date of this entry, as well as a description, also by section, township, and range, of the land desired for addition to the entry. Information as to the possibility of "water" the land should also be furnished and should include the direction of the nearest stream or existing proposed irrigation canal, the elevation of the lowest point of the land above such source of water supply, the depth at which water can be reached by a well sunk on the land, and all available facts relative to the coming attempts to obtain water by this method. The general character of the land, both of the homestead and of the land desired for addition, and of the land desired for addition, should also be described to aid the Survey in reaching a decision as to its non-irrigability.

This information should be embodied in a letter sent to the Director of the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C. A formal petition drawn up by a notary or an attorney is not at all necessary, and will not result in an earlier consideration of the matter than will be given if the applicant writes personally. Action will be taken on every request as promptly as is consistent with a proper regard for other requests that are pending, and the applicant will be promptly notified when a final decision has been reached.

COLLIERIES CHANGE HANDS

Pittsburg Coal Company Buys In $100,000,000 Property.

F. M. Wall, vice president of the Pittsburg Coal Company, purchased at auction the properties of the Illinois Collieries Company for $125,000. The properties include nine mines in Central Illinois and 24,000 acres of coal land and are valued at $700,000,000. They have been in the hands of the Illinois Collieries Company for some time and six of the mines are not at present in operation. The sale was conducted by the master in chancery, John M. Pfeiffer of Sangamon county. The purchase was made for the Pittsburg Coal Company, which will reorganize the Illinois Collieries Company. The price paid represented the amount of the seller's certificates held by the Pittsburg Coal Company and interest.

SPENCER WILL BE HANGED FOR MURDER

HARRY SPENCER

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Henry Spencer found guilty of the sensational murder of Mrs. Mildred Allison-Roxton, a teacher, has been sentenced to death by hanging. The execution will take place next month. Since his arrest Spencer has been boasting that he wanted to be the feature of a "necktie party," but when the verdict was read he turned pale and almost collapsed. The defense was weak. No witnesses were placed on the stand. The mental condition of Spencer was not proved on by experts. He took the stand, but his evidence was mostly confined to the answer "I don't know" to every question put by his attorney and the representative of the state.

Charm of Line; White, Cream and Rich Colors; Lovely Materials, and Most of all, BECOMINGNESS

ALL are decidedly new and fresh, and some are just arrived, shown now for the first time. The collection is for every girl and woman who attends theatre, ball, receptions, dinners and other functions and whose station in social life makes it necessary to possess a wardrobe of individuality and correct style—in short, every daughter of Eve who loves fashionable apparel.

In their fascinating lines, in the use of soft materials, satins and glides sheer laces, felts and nets, they are of the highest order of refinement and free from over-trimmings that border on the garish. The color-arrangement of the DANCING FROCKS is enlarged over previous seasons—delicate peach tints, pale greens and the exquisite new tones, supplementing the pink, blue, cream and conventional white.
